Oh, what shall I write,
Oh, what shall it be,
Only two words.-"Remember me."

To Elizabeth
I dedicate these few lines.

Mabel E. Bailey
"L. F."

June 3. 904.

True worth is in being, not seeming,-
In doing each day that goes by
Some little good — not in dreaming
Of great things to do by and by.

There's nothing so kingly as kindness,
And nothing so royal as truth

Carey

Anna C. Fairfield, '04

I wish the bottoms of the hills
Were moved up to the top
Then when I wanted to go up
I'd simply have to drop.

Florence H Russell.

March 11, 1904.

Life is a long succession,
Wherein each one of us may write
The word is true, and then commence it.
Resolve to go through, thou have time
Enough for a little to finish:
Not failure but low aim is crime.

Florence M. Guernsey.

When the golden sun is setting,
And your thoughts from cares are free,
When [illegible] are thinking,
Will you sometimes think of me?

May your life be filled with bright hopes and anticipations of the future. And when your thoughts in after life, are wandering back over the past, may you think of me, and remember me as your friend,

"May pleasure smile around thy path
And rise upon each shining day.
And may sincerity and truth
Still be companions of thy way."

"To be glad of life, because it gives you the chance to love and to work and to play and to look up at the stars; ..... and to spend as much time as you can, with body and with spirit, in God's out-of-doors — these are little guide-posts on the foot-paths to peace." Henry van Dyke.

Sincerely your friend,
Lillian Camaraci

"Forenoon and afternoon and night, — Forenoon,
And afternoon, and night, —
Forenoon, and — what!
The empty song repeats itself. No more!
Yea, that is Life: make this forenoon
sublime,
This afternoon a psalm, this night a
prayer,
And Time is conquered, and thy crown is won."

May 2, 1904.

Lillian M. Wing.

"Keep to the right and keep moving."
